

Liz Fuller:

I feel like having affairs in order is a sense of comfort and a sense of peace, and that should something happen to me today, everything's taken care of, and everyone that I care about is taken care of. There brings a lot of comfort to that.

My name is Liz Fuller. I live in Raleigh, North Carolina. I am employed as a physician assistant. At some point we all reach that age that you have to sort of grow up, so I decided it was time for me to get my affairs in order, so to speak. My main updates that I always think about first and foremost are the healthcare updates. What do you want? What do you expect? How do you want to be cared for? Since I'm in the medical profession, it is important to me that I have things done exactly the way that I want and I don't want anyone interfering with that. I sought an attorney because I didn't want to miss anything. I had spoken with one other attorney, but I did not feel particularly comfortable. I felt as though I was being pressured to make quick decisions and just felt it was not personal.

About 15 years ago, someone gave me Angela's name and we connected, and once I met Angela, everything seemed to move along and I had no second thoughts about it. Throughout the whole process and anytime I've made any changes and updates, I've never had a problem. Once the decisions were made, they've been tweaked and modified and changed some, but it's always been an easy process. Over the years, I have had to return for periodic updates roughly four times, and that when I did those updates, again it brought me back to peace of mind and a comfort level that I didn't have to worry. My main changes were healthcare, power of attorney and my wishes. I needed to make those changes for legalities sake. If something happened to me today and I hadn't done those updates, it would not have been a good result. That would have been terrible.

Knowing Angela as I've known her and as long as I've known her, she has an incredibly big heart and I think she is one of the kindest and most thoughtful and, generous people you would ever come across. She truly is a good person. She was very professional. She was courteous. She's got a great sense of humor. So she made things easy. She makes you feel comfortable, never hesitates to answer a question, and she never hesitates to get back in touch if I've called and left a message. She's always been right there. She's always made time for me, and we've always had a moment of personal time and laughing and joking, and it's always been very comfortable. I don't think really you could ask for much more.
