

This transcript was exported on Dec 20, 2022 - view latest version here.

Gabriela Matthew:

Part of what we're doing is the law, and part of what we're doing is talking to people through a very difficult emotional time in their lives. For me, it was a perfect niche to go into because I like working with people. I'm Gabriela Matthews. I'm the latest addition to the firm. I practiced on my own for 25 years. I'm an attorney, and so I have come in of counsel to this firm as well. I have always done family law, so since 1990 I've been practicing family law. People come to me and say, "You've made such a difference." Or I've even had people come to me and talk about their children and what a difference I made in their children's lives.

That's rewarding and it makes a difference.